Manual Test Plan – mallava2

Week 3 – Final Project – CS 242

Running scrapy crawl acm and scrapy crawl ece in the foodscraper folder will automatically scrape the ACM and ECE calendars and populate the database with the event information. Running ../manage.py runserver will start up the Django website locally.
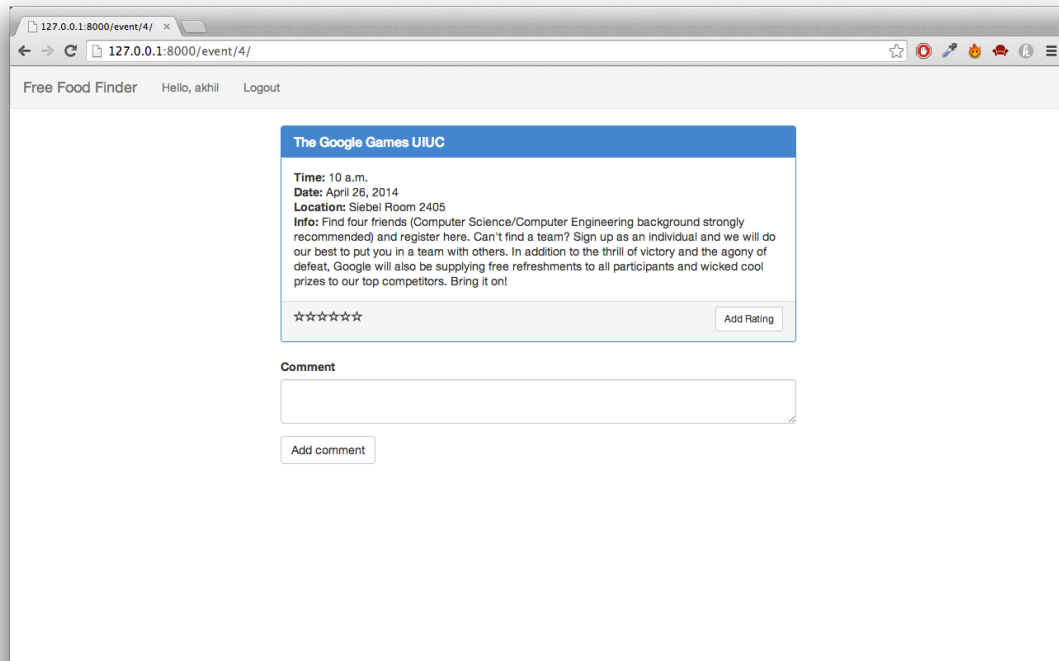

The homepage of the website should look like a list providing options to filter events by all, today or this week.

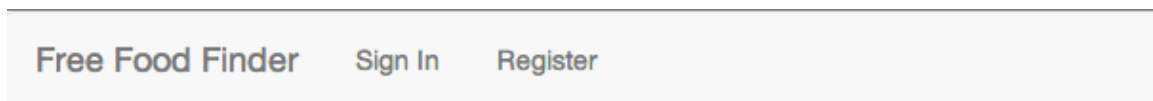

Clicking on any link will provide you a list of events with their descriptions. Ensure that there are no duplicate events as these should be automatically deleted.
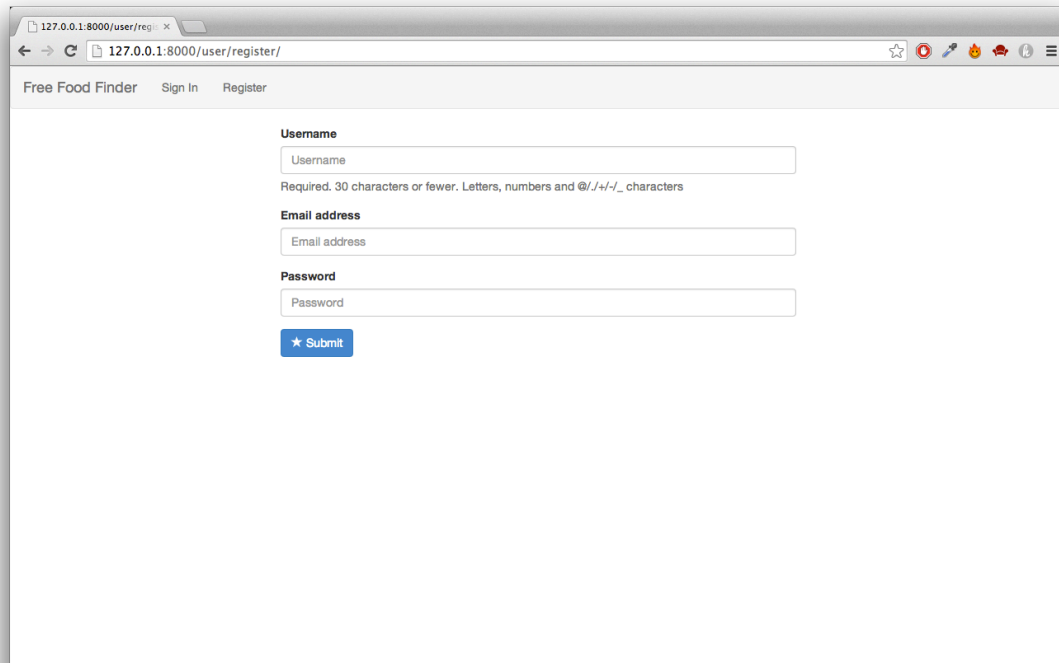

Clicking on the events will provide a listing of all the information about the event including name, description, location, time and date. All events on the site should be pertaining to food – if they have nothing to do with food then the system is adding the events by accident.

The header on top of the page has a link to the homepage as well as 'Sign In' and 'Register' links for new users.

Clicking 'Register' will take you to the registration page.

Filling out the form correctly should take you to a success page.
